Sake a Gogo Goes All Out for National Cat Day with Modern Japanese Flair

An October 29 celebration brings Louisville's cat lovers together for creative sushi, feline festivities, and support for local cat and kitten rescue.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (October 19, 2026) — Sake a Gogo, Kevin Grangier's modern Japanese restaurant in Louisville's NuLu neighborhood, will celebrate National Cat Day on Thursday, October 29, with fabulous food, feline festivities, and support for local cat and kitten rescue. Dinner reservations for the second annual celebration are available from 4 to 10 p.m., with attendance limited to 200 guests.

The Belle Noble Hospitality Group restaurant will welcome fellow cat lovers into its lively, colorful dining rooms for creative sushi and specialty rolls, A5 Wagyu robata-grilled skewers, and playful feline touches throughout the evening. Cat-themed table games, prizes, and giveaways will add to the festivities, along with the kind of outrageous cat tales that deserve an audience.

"If your phone is full of cat photos, you've found your people," said Kevin Grangier, founder and CEO of Belle Noble Hospitality Group. "We'll eat fabulously, celebrate the cats we love, remember the ones we've lost, and help the ones who still need us."

Inspired by Nugget, Grangier's beloved rescue cat, the evening honors the cats who have changed our lives while helping those still waiting for care and a home. A portion of every guest check will support local cat and kitten rescue.

Reservations are encouraged in advance. Sake a Gogo is located at 620 E. Market Street, Louisville, KY 40202. Valet parking is available for $5. For questions or reservation assistance, call (502) 630-6889.
